The Challenge

Ohio was ranks in the bottom 10% nationally on child welfare outcomes (2018 data)

Bottom 10%	ОН	US
Those who attained a High School Diploma/GED	60%	70%
Those who were employed	46%	57%
Those who were enrolled in school	12%	28%
Those who experienced incarceration	37%	19%
Bottom 20%
Those who experienced homelessness	37%	29%
Those who have a connection to an adult	81%	87%

Racial disproportionality in Ohio's child welfare system (2020 data)

My hope for youth in care is that their voices can be heard in a meaningful way.

How is Ohio doing?

Key Statistics

- The percentage of children placed in congregate care among counties ranges from as high as 63% to as low as 5%.
- Over 1,000 youth aged out of care in 2019 and 2020, but in 2021, the number decreased to 952.
- Participation in Bridges, which offers independent living services to youth who age out of care, increased by more than 20% in each of the last two years.
- Roughly one in four children have more than one report of maltreatment in one year.
- Children in Ohio who are Black are three times more likely to be placed in out-of-home care as children who are white.

Does Ohio meet the National Standard?

Safety

More Ohio children experience multiple instances of abuse and neglect than nationally.

More Ohio children experience maltreatment while in care than nationally.

Permanency

Ohio performs better than average on measures of permanency.

Of children who are reunified, more return to foster care within 12 months than the national average.

Stablility

Placement stability is an area of strength for Ohio, with childrenmoving less frequently than in other states.

IN CHILD WELFARE

Benchmark County Profile

This is a sample profile that displays data for a hypothetical county that performs better than average on specific measures. Population and other rates listed in the header show the state averages. To view a specific county, visit https://cdfohio.org/policy/resources/kids-county.

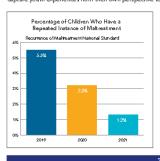

Child Population: 2,558,641 Black: 1596 Hispanic: 796 Multi-racial: 596 Other: 496

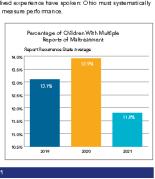

White: 70%

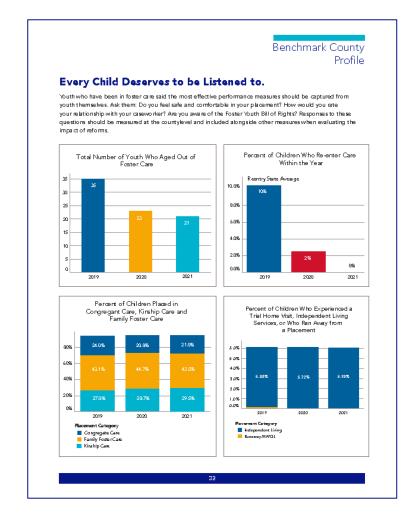

Children in Care (2021): 25,104
Rate of Maltreatment: 6.8
Placement Rate: 9.7
Maltreatment Recurrence Rate: 10.196
Report Recurrence Rate: 23.1%

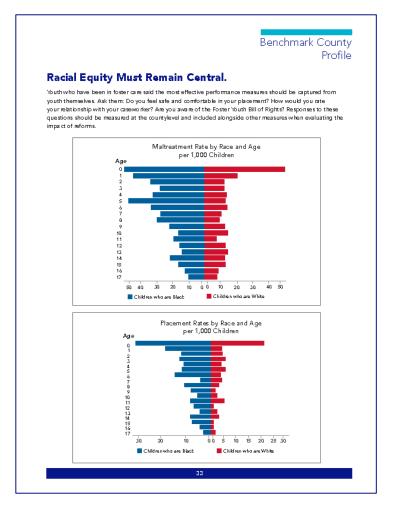

First and Foremost, Keep Children Safe.

This profile includes key indicators that measure how well our community is doing in ensuring the safety, permanency, stability and equity of children and youth who experience mait reatment. The measures are important but they don't tell the whole story. Youth with lived experience have spoken: Ohio must systematically capture youth experiences from their own perspective to measure performance.

Reason to Hope

Reform efforts in Ohio

- Children Services Transformation
- Youth and Family Ombudsman Office
- Addressing Racism
- Safe Babies Court Team
- Family First Prevention Services

A Youth Ombudsman office represents hope to many of us who were in foster care.

Looking Ahead

Designing a Youth Experience Survey

We also need to be taking qualitative, anonymous, if need be, surveys of our kids in care, frequently, and asking them if they are being maltreated.

Questions that Can Serve as Baseline Measures

Have you experienced maltreatment in care?

Do you feel safe in your placement?

Are you aware of the Foster Youth Bill of Rights?

How would you rate the quality of your relationship with your caseworker?

How many caseworkers have you had during your time in care?

Are you aware of independent living resources and supports?

How prepared are you for adulthood?

Key Takeaways

- Leaders in Ohio recognize the challenges faced by youth in the child welfare system and are working toward reform.
- Identifying measures is a key part of continuous quality improvement.
- Focus on performance measures that matter to youth
- Include youth interviews in performance measures
- Reimagine existing processes as performance measures
- Include measures of well-being from other systems

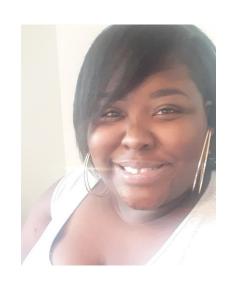

Challenges and Intersections

- Bias in data and the importance of survey design
- Caseworker workload and workforce challenges in Ohio
- Proactive role of the Youth Ombudsman office in using the data
- Status updates about the Youth Ombudsman office
- Youth Ombudsman offices in other states
- Initiatives in other states
